WILLIAM L. MILLER NAMED ALTERNATE FOR CADETSHIP

William L. Miller, the 18-year-old son of Mrs. Lillian E. Miller of 1133 Twenty-fifth street, has been notified from Washington of his appointment as alternate for a cadetship at West Point by Senator Reed Smoot. The principal is Donald Coray and should he fall in the final example Miller will be given an opportunity to take it. Miller graduated from the All Hallows college in Salt Lake in 1913, and already has taken the preliminary examination for entrance to West Point.

EXTENSION WORK OF UNIVERSITY

A notice was received at the office of the board of education today from the extension work bureau of the University of Utah to the effect that no one who is not regularly registered in the extension classes can attend the classes after Monday, December 7. The time for registration officially expired on November 30, but an additional week's grace was given, on account of the holiday last week.

SIX RESERVATIONS THE LIMIT PLACED BY THE ELKS

When Emperor Hang Chow, one of the principal characters in "A Chinese Honeymoon," the Elks production to be presented next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, decides that his Chinese government is not complete without an official mother-in-law, he sends to the United States and gets Mrs. Brown. Once he creates the position of the official mother-in-law, he discovers his folly, for Mrs. Brown proceeds to run the Chinese government, and the emperor is soon playing second fiddle.

The part of Mrs. Brown is played by Mrs. Agnes Warner, one of Ogden's best known vocalists and she has put into the role much snap and enthusiasm. Her past experience on the stage and in concert stands her in good stead in the Elks' show for the part is a difficult one and if not sustained from start to finish would have a bad effect on the rest of the productions.

A. H. Sander, who has appeared in several Elks' shows, is playing Tom Hatherington in this year's production. He is the nephew of Mr. Pineapple, who is spending a honeymoon in China. When Tom resigns his position that he might be near the Princess Soo Soo, who he believes is a singing girl, the uncle disapproves—that is until he meets Soo Soo. After that the uncle thinks too much of the singing girl.

Tickets were placed on sale at the Orpheum this morning and there was a rush during the day. To prevent a few from reserving all the seats, the lodge has ruled that one person cannot obtain more than six reservations.

PROGRESSIVES STAND FIRM

Will Adhere to Party Principles and Continue in Action as Separate Organization.

Chicago, Dec. 2.—Progressives from thirty-four states, in a conference session of the executive committee of the party, today expressed their confidence in the Progressive party principles and their determination to continue the party in action.

Reports were heard from the various states, and later a statement was issued by the executive committee, through its chairman, George W. Perkins of New York, declaring that the Progressive organization and campaign of education should continue. The party should be asked to fix the time and place for holding the national convention of the party in 1916 and to transact business incidental to the presidential campaign two years from now.

Not a speaker made any suggestion of abandoning the party, and the subject of amalgamation with either of the older parties was not brought up.

The meeting, in epitome, was reviewed in the statement issued by the executive committee after its session. The statement read:

"The executive committee of the Progressive party, at a fully-attended meeting today, heard reports as to general conditions and as to the state of the organization work throughout the country. Ninety-one representative Progressives from thirty-four states were present.

"It was found that in the thirty-seven states where the Progressive party had tickets in the field at the last election it polled an aggregate of more than 1,750,000 votes. Particularly encouraging reports of increased Progressive votes were received from southern states, notably Louisiana and Georgia.

"The industrial depression and the consequent reaction against the Democratic tariff was undoubtedly the issue which primarily determined the reactionary results of the election.

Old Parties Repudiated.
"Both the Democratic and Republican parties have passed tariffs by the old method of log-rolling, and the people have now successfully repudiated them both.

"The Progressive party specifically declared this doctrine in its platform of 1912, and pointed out the only way to take the tariff out of politics—by the creation of a permanent, expert, non-partisan tariff commission. We call attention to the necessity of prompt action on the Murdock tariff commission bill introduced in May, 1913.

"Progressive principles are permanent, and it is now more than ever evident that the Progressive party today is the necessary organ for their realization."
The question of moving the party headquarters from New York was not dealt with by the executive committee though in the conference Gifford Pinchot suggested that a more westerly location would bring the party headquarters nearer to the great body of Progressive party voters.

Leaders Present.
Members of the committee who were present were: George W. Perkins, New York; William Flinn, Pennsylvania; Walter F. Brown, Ohio, and Jane Addams and Medill McCormick, Illinois.

Among the other prominent leaders in attendance were: Senator Moses E. Clay, Minnesota; Hugh T. Halbert, St. Paul; Gifford Pinchot, Pennsylvania; Charles M. Thomson, Chicago; Raymond Robins, Chicago; Charles E. Burbank, Massachusetts; William Allen White, Kansas; Victor Murdock, Kansas; James R. Garfield, Ohio, and Frank H. Fournier, Illinois.

Mr. Perkins called attention to the vote of Progressives in the November elections and declared that when analyzed it showed a condition far from tallying with the idea of disintegration. He then declared for a continuance of the Progressive party as an organization.

Reported Conditions.
Victor Murdock, Gifford Pinchot, Senator Clapp and James R. Garfield were among those who reported on political conditions in their states. Each of them was firm in his declaration that the party organization should be continued. K. Davis, secretary of the executive committee, presented a tabulation of the votes of the Progressive party in the November election giving the total vote for one Progressive party as 1,746,125, divided as follows:

New England states, 70,171; middle Atlantic states, 311,290; south Atlantic, 73,736; middle west, 628,722; and western, 667,199. Only three southern states—Alabama, Georgia and Louisiana—were included in the total.

It was the unanimous judgment of the committee that the Progressive organization and campaign of education should be continued on the lines heretofore followed. To that end the committee provided that the Progressive national committee shall be called to meet not later than January 15, 1916, to fix the time and place for holding the national convention of the Progressive party and to transact such other business as may, at

AGED WOMAN PUT TO DEATH IN HER HOME IN SALT LAKE

Salt Lake, Dec. 2.—Attacked and brutally murdered in her home, 457 South Second West street, the body of Mrs. Sophia Bourazanis, mother of Father Dorotheos Bourazanis, was discovered by the son and a friend at 7 o'clock last night. The aged victim was past 75 and, notwithstanding her years, every evidence of a fierce struggle was found in the room where the body lay. Father Bourazanis is priest of the Greek orthodox church in this city, having arrived from Greece about a year ago to assume his charge. The mother accompanied him to this country.

Although the son and his friends ascribe robbery as the motive for the fiendish crime, there are others who unhesitatingly hold to the theory that it was committed out of revenge. This latter theory finds some support in the fact that local Greek church people are divided into factions, and much bitterness exists. The calling of Father Bourazanis to the local field less than a year ago raised a storm of protest among the faction opposed to the administration which he represents, and trouble of a more or less serious nature has occurred from time to time since.

If the murderer entered the house with intent to rob, his mission failed in this respect. The body, which was cold and rigid when discovered, lay in the front room of the four-room cottage. This was Mrs. Bourazanis' sleeping room. The bed clothing and mattresses were turned about, and the head of the victim was resting on a pillow, which had evidently fallen to the floor during the struggle. The body was fully dressed. Between the two mattresses was a small canvas bag, containing about $150 in gold and silver.

This was undisturbed, and was found by the son when he broke into the house last evening, having failed to get a response to repeated knocks at the doors. Peter Elias, janitor of the Greek church, accompanied Father Bourazanis to the house and assisted him in forcing an entrance. The priest had been away from home since 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, having gone to Sunnyside, Utah, on church business. He was prostrated at the sight which confronted him when he entered his home.

Acting Coroner H. S. Harper and detectives who investigated the case are of the opinion that the murder was committed some time Tuesday night, though George Percy, who lives at 263 West Fifth South street, avers that he saw the woman on the front porch of her home about 9 o'clock yesterday morning.

Near neighbors, however, are equally certain that she did not appear at all yesterday, and was last seen Tuesday evening about 8:30, when she came to the front door with a visitor who had been calling at the house. Elias, the janitor, says that he called upon the woman Tuesday evening, but insisted that he left the house between 7 and 8 o'clock.

Neighbors came to the police officials with the story of a young man, well dressed, who had been seen about the Bourazanis premises for the past few days. Father Bourazanis said that the young man was a Greek who claimed to have recently arrived here from Chicago, and said he was looking for work. The priest allowed him to sleep in the house two nights.

JESSE J. JENKINS PROVED A HERO

The body of Jesse J. Jenkins was interred yesterday afternoon in the Mountain View cemetery, following services at the Kirkendall funeral chapel, conducted by Rev. H. D. Zimmerman, who accompanied the father and sister, Mrs. Charles Jenkins of Ogden and Mrs. B. V. Bell of Promontory, to the cemetery and dedicated the grave. Quite a number of friends also followed the procession to the grave.

The burial of Mr. Jenkins was the last rite in the passing of a hero from this existence, for he lost his life to save a woman who was washed from the steamer Hanael, when the vessel ran onto the Duxbury reef, on November 23d. The reef is about nine miles north of the Golden Gate and the vessel struck it during a heavy storm. The story of the wreck and of Jenkins' heroism was told by the woman whom he saved and was given wide publicity by newspapers all over the Pacific coast.

The former Ogden man was one of several who was washed from the ship. While clinging to an improvised raft, he saw the woman struggling in the water. He jumped from the raft and managed to get the woman on to it, but his strength was spent with the effort and calling "Goodbye and Godspeed" to the woman, he sank. His body was found on the beach some hours later.

Jesse J. Jenkins was 29 years of age and passed his early childhood in Ogden. He was a student in the grammar grades of the local public schools, but later went to Astoria, Ore., where his mother, Mrs. J. W. Conley, lived. He shipped on the Hanael at Astoria as an oiler in the engine room.

ORGAN RECITAL AT THE TABERNACLE

Organist Sam F. Whitaker of the Ogden Tabernacle will give an organ recital Sunday morning, for the boys and girls of the state industrial school. The recital will be at the Tabernacle and will begin at 11 o'clock.

Mrs. Jeanette M. Morrell will give a brief talk before each selection, explanatory of the music and directing those present to the points that are to be given special study. The recital has been arranged by the Sunday School association of the school and the program will also include several vocal numbers.

As this is the second organ recital that has been given on the organ, the public is also invited to attend.

BRITAIN'S FIRST ENVOY TO VATICAN

Sir Henry Howard.

One of the most important of recent departures in European politics was the appointment of Sir Henry Howard, formerly British minister to The Hague, as envoy from England to the Holy See at Rome. Sir Howard is well known in the United States. While he was an attaché of the British legation at Washington nearly fifty years ago he wedded Miss Cecelia Riggs, daughter of the late George W. Riggs of that city.

SAFE, GENTLE REMEDY CLEANSES YOUR KIDNEYS

For centuries GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil has been a standard household remedy for kidney, liver, bladder and stomach trouble, and all diseases connected with the urinary organs. The kidneys and bladder are the most important organs of the body. They are the filters, the purifiers of your blood. If the poisons which enter your system through the blood are not entirely thrown out by the kidneys and bladder, you are doomed.

For 200 years they have been a standard household remedy. They are the pure, original imported Haarlem Oil your great-grandmother used, and are perfectly harmless. The healing, soothing oil soaks into the cells and lining of the kidneys and through the bladder driving out the poisonous germs. New life fresh strength and health will come as you continue the treatment. When completely restored to your usual vigor, continue taking a capsule or two each day; they will keep you in condition and prevent a return of the disease.

Do not delay a minute. Delays are especially dangerous in kidney and bladder trouble. All druggists sell GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules. They will refund the money if not as represented. In three sizes, sealed packages. Ask for the original imported GOLD MEDAL. Accept no substitute.—Advertisement.
